

Dr. Javier García-Zubia is head of the Department of Industrial Technologies. Javier received Ph.D. in 1996 in Computer Engineering from the Faculty of Engineering of the University of Deusto. His research and teaching areas are on remote laboratories and digital electronics. He coordinates the WebLab-DEUSTO (www.weblab.deusto.es), experiments of which are being accessed by hundreds students per year. He is co-editor of two books: "Advances of remote laboratories and e-learning experiences"(2007), "Using remote labs in education (2012) and author of more than 100 papers in journals and international conferences. He is awarded by Best Educational Tool Award at the IECON/ICELIE 2009. He has participated in several projects centered in remote labs: RexNet (Remote Labs in education), e-Pragmatic (Remote Labs for professional training), and OLAREX (Remote Labs for promoting science and engineering in secondary schools and museums).